

Alison Hughes - Civil Rights, Women's Rights, and Rural Health Activist.

Tucson Women's Commission, founding Executive Director and late-life commissioner; University of Arizona College of Public Health faculty, Rural Health Office, Arizona Telemedicine Program; Women's Political Caucus; National Rural Health Association Policy Board; Black Women's Task Force of Southern Arizona-founding member; University of Arizona Retirees Association, past president; National Organization of State Offices of Rural Health, former president; Federal Advisory National Rural Health Advisory Committee; Federal Advisory Good Neighbor Environmental Board; YWCA/Tucson, past president; Arizona Women's Commission; American Association of University Women; League of Women Voters; Southern Arizona Mental Health Center, Past President; Arizona Rural Health Association, founding member and past president; American Public Health Association Action Board; National Organization for Women-Tucson, former president; Neighborhood Coalition of Greater Tucson; Executive Women's Council of Southern Arizona, Charter Member; New Directions for Young Women-Tucson, past president; Democratic Party-Arizona, former Vice Chair; Democratic National Committee – former Executive Committee member; Arizona Women's Hall of Fame, founding member; NAACP-Tucson, former board member; Arizona Commission on Trial Court Appointments; Arizona State Democratic Party Committee member; Catalina Vista Neighborhood Association-Tucson, past president; Universal Services Administrative Company board; U.S. Representative James McNulty, former aide; Federal Office of Women's Health, Bright Futures Advisory Committee; KZAZ television and KHYT radio-Tucson, former program host on women's issues; U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, former employee.